

Registered Psychologist – NDIS Behaviour Support

Inner west & eastern suburbs – great remuneration package along with a rewarding career (FT or PT)

As part of an established NSW based NGO – we are a professional and well-established allied health service. We deliver clinical assessments and individual therapeutic interventions across the lifespan to all individuals. In addition, we develop and implement positive behaviour support strategies for individuals with intellectual disabilities.

What we offer:

- Excellent Remuneration $85,000 - $90,000 (includes the car allowance) + Super on salary component
- Salary Sacrifice: Get your first $15,900 tax free! Plus meal allowance cards and many other extras
- Opportunity to working within a professional clinical team with regular team meetings & training
- Potential to help mentor early career psychologists and contribute to the overall development of our sector
- Mascot base (with parking) and some opportunity to work from home
- Secure employment in a well-respected and values based organisation that really understands a work/life balance

What we will require:

- Full AHPRA Registration as a Psychologist
- Current driver's license and a willingness to drive during work hours
- Demonstrated ability to deliver evidence based practice
- High level time management skills
- Some experience working with a client base with intellectual disabilities and challenging behaviours is desirable
- Some experience in the planning, assessment and implementation of positive behaviour support for people with a disability is ideal though we can help train the right person with a genuine interest in this sector

Applications to Human Resources DSA via dmilligan@dsa.org.au with a current resume outlining your relevant experience and qualifications along with a cover letter. Please submit by 3rd Dec 2018.